HIGHLIGHTS FOR THE MONTH 4 of 6 Raw materials During the period, the PP. Raffia position was challenging because of the uncertainty of receiving regular supplies from the Refinery. We resorted to local purchases of PP. Raffia to run the plant during the month. Meanwhile, we have taken delivery of 300mts of off-speck polypropylene from the Refinery so far and only about 200mts were good for bulk trails. Presently, we have engaged and will continued to engage the Refinery to finalise the process of material delivery available in their warehouse. We are hopeful, that as soon as the production of polypropylene stabilizes in the Refinery, the challenge with PP. Raffia will be over. There are no issues with PP. Lam and LDPE and have sufficient materials during the month and under review. Importation of Spare Parts/Consumables We continue to take delivery of critical electronic/electrical parts which were being used optimally to ensure continuous operation. Few months back Windmoller Company has been taken over by Starlinger Company. Due to this there is a confusion in the Ordering/Delivery of spares and consumables. In the next few weeks, we hope to overcome this issue. HIGHLIGHTS
